Luke's Editorial

WHAT IS MORE DANGEROUS DIY OR GUNS?

Did you know, an Australian citizen is 10 times more likely to end up in hospital from a DIY injury than being injured by a gun.

As a society we license and restrict the sales of firearms and ammunition because of the perceived dangers involved.

For some reason when it comes to a problem that is 10 times the magnitude our society seems to turn a blind eye.

Large hardware chains are relentless in encouraging people to DIY. Television shows sponsored by plumbing and hardware chains are on prime time pushing the public to "have a go."

Can you imagine if there was a gun show on prime time telly promoting the purchase and use of guns? We could even have advertisements saying come down on Saturday for a sausage and an "in shop" course on how to load and discharge an automatic high powered rifle?

If you take the comparison further, we do actually have licenses for the more dangerous DIY work. Plumbing, gas fitting and electrical are licenced trades. It seems, however, no one is interested in restricting who buys this product. Again using the firearm comparison, it would be like the government licensing shooters but having no restrictions on who can buy a gun. Under this system we have a tightly controlled group of shooters and the rest of the population can buy as many firearms and ammunition as they like with no controls or restrictions.

It sounds ridiculous but the facts speak for themselves. DIY is out of control in the plumbing, gas fitting and electrical trades.

At Plumbers Choice our goal is to change the way plumbing goods are sold in Australia to a Trade Only industry.

We are growing fast with the support of plumbers and look forward to a day when a plumbing and gas fitting licence actually means something.

NOGGIN DRILL. 1375mm long with a 25mm wood boring bit on the end, it can be used to drill through noggins in most walls. The shaft is 6mm flexible steel, fits into any chuck. You can use a power drill or battery operated drill with no problems. Pine or hardwood, the Plumtool Noggin Drill will bore through it with ease. A key feature is the small hole in the drill tip; you can attach a pipe or wire to the hole and pull it back up inside the wall.

BUSINESS TIP

Try and collect payment for the job straight after it is completed. Hand the customer the invoice while you wait. Just wait patiently and they will get the point to pay. You don't even need to say a word, they'll get it.

If you blow out a bit much when drilling a hole for a plug, up size it with a bit of duct tape. You can fix anything with duct tape!

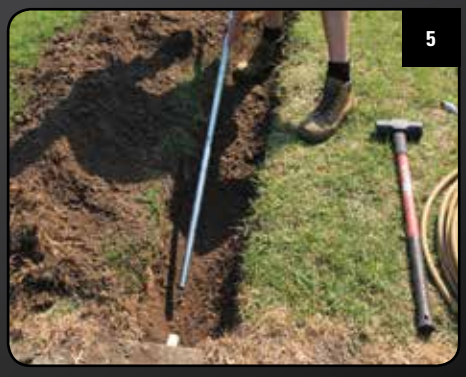
Complete assembly by attaching the driver head.

Place the Under Path Driver in the trench and drive with a large sledge hammer.

When the point appears on the opposite side of the path, unscrew it.



Withdraw the shaft from the 25mm sleeve.

Install the required Pex pipe or wire through the 25mm PVC pressure pipe sleeve.

- Standard kit can span a distance of 1.7m
- Inserts a length of 25mm PVC under the path
- 25mm Polypipe will fit through the sleeve
